Porphyromonas gingivalis plays a major role in periodontitis by inducing the overexpression of IL-8 in gingival epithelial cells. The purpose of this study is to investigate the roles of Porphyromonas gingivalis in the development of periodontitis, especially the molecular mechanism underlying the overexpression of IL-8 in gingival epithelial cells. The human oral epithelial cell line, PEPC1, the human gingival fibroblast cell line, HGF, and the human periodontal ligament cell line, PDL4, were cultured. The mRNA and protein expression of IL-8 were determined by real-time RT-PCR and ELISA, respectively. Moreover, the mRNA levels and promoter activity of IL-8 were measured by quantitative real-time RT-PCR and luciferase assay, respectively. The mRNA expression of IL-8 was higher in PEPC1 cells than in the HGF or PDL4 cells. In addition, the protein expression of IL-8 was significantly higher in PEPC1 cells than that in HGF or PDL4 cells. Moreover, P. gingivalis significantly induced the mRNA and protein expression of IL-8 in PEPC1 cells. This increase in IL-8 expression was mediated by the phosphatidylinositol 3 kinase and phosphatidylinositol 3 kinase-dependent protein kinase Akt and, to a lesser extent, by the p38 mitogen activated protein kinase. P. gingivalis induces the overexpression of IL-8 in gingival epithelial cells.
